Request for Computer Laboratory Access/Use

Many of the university's computer laboratories have been transitioned to meet social distancing requirements and will remain open for the use of students and faculty. The laboratories will be placed on an enhanced cleaning schedule. In addition, sanitizing supplies and instructions are available in each lab for the user to follow and sanitize the workstation prior to each use.

Colleges asking to open local labs with specialized software or specific program needs will be limited to 10 computers per room and must meet social distancing requirements. ITS will work closely with sysadmins to meet these requirements.

Academic Affairs is requesting that deans complete this form to identify the local and specialized computer laboratories that need to be maintained for students for instructional purposes. Once identified, these laboratories will be converted to appropriate social distancing, cleaning schedules, and IT maintenance.

Please use the form to identify the laboratories by Friday, March 26 at 2 p.m.

An updated list of open general-use ITS computer labs will be posted March 27 by noon on the Academic Affairs webpage at <https://www.isu.edu/academicaffairs/aacovid-19--/>. Hours are subject to change.

Please also note that faculty may access their offices for the purposes of instruction during the current Phase II environment. Appropriate social distancing and cleaning must be maintained.
