

CPI Intern of the Month 2020

January

PARKER PRATT

Parker Pratt is a senior pursuing a degree in Music through Idaho State University's School of Performing Arts. Pratt has been working as a CPI intern within the Stephens Performing Art Center since the beginning of Fall semester. During his internship, Pratt has assisted with graphic design for various events, written press releases, and even helped execute the first-ever ISU Chorus flashmob. Most recently, Pratt helped organize an "After Glow" event which occurred directly after the initial performance of "The Best Christmas Pageant Ever: The Musical." This event was created to bring the community, actors, and the production & theatre staff together to celebrate opening night.

February

MAKENNA LITTLE

MaKenna Little is a graduate student pursuing a Masters of Business Administration through Idaho State University's College of Business. Little has been working as a CPI intern with MedMan, a physician practice management company that works with medical clinics to improve operations. During her internship, Little has worked on many projects including helping implement an electronic health records system for a regional clinic, developing a recruitment tool kit, and overseeing the front desk at MedMan's Boise location.

March

JETT HAWK

Jett Hawk is a junior pursuing a Bachelors of Business Administration with a minor in Chemistry. Hawk has been working as a CPI intern at the Idaho Accelerator Center for the past two semesters. The Idaho Accelerator Center is a unique research facility operated by Idaho State University that provides opportunities for research in specialized nuclear facilities.

April

CHARLOTTE MCBRIDE

Charlotte McBride is a senior pursuing a degree in Communication, Media and Persuasion with minors in journalism, advertising, and public relations. McBride currently holds a Career Path Internship (CPI) within the College of Business' marketing department, where she has created branded content for the college that can be seen both on and off campus. McBride's other projects have included creating an alumni spotlight series, filming and editing videos, and writing the College of Business' weekly blog.

May

EMMA BAILEY

Emma Bailey is a junior pursuing a degree in Visual Communications with an emphasis in graphic design. Bailey currently holds a Career Path Internship at the Museum of Idaho in Idaho Falls, where she has been able to put her skills to work creating marketing elements including posters and outdoor banners for the museum's evolving exhibits.

June

CHRISTIE COLLIER

Christie Collier is a senior pursuing a bachelor's degree in Organizational Learning and Performance. Collier currently holds a Career Path Internship in the Energy Systems Technology and Education Center (ESTEC), a part of Idaho State University's College of Technology where she has been able to put her background in nuclear operations technology to work.

July

RADHIKA NARSINGHANI

Radhika Narsinghani is a fourth-year pharmacy student at Idaho State University. Narsinghani currently holds a Career Path Internship at the College of Pharmacy's Meridian campus. Her internship has included work with a statewide survey of pharmacy practice in Idaho, where she assisted in analyzing the survey results

August

JAKE SHIELDS

Jake Shields is a senior pursuing a bachelor's degree in Microbiology and Anthropology at Idaho State University. Shields currently holds a Career Path Internship position with the Bioarcheology and Histology laboratory at ISU where he has contributed to many important projects including forensic research, aiding in cold case projects, processing archeological remains, and utilizing an array of anthropological, anatomical, osteological and biological methods to aid in these projects.

September

ARYN TRUESDELL

Aryn Truesdell is a senior pursuing a bachelor's degree in Marketing with a minor in Advocacy at Idaho State University. Truesdell currently holds a Career Path Internship position with the Southeast Idaho Council of Governments (SICOG) where she has contributed to multiple Transportation projects and the marketing materials related to these projects as well as participating in health fairs and outreach.

October

CONNOR HARPER

Connor Harper is a doctoral student pursuing a PhD degree in Physics at Idaho State University. Harper currently holds a Career Path Internship position with the ISU Physics Department where he constructed a new laboratory in the physical science building's clean room that would provide undergraduates with a data collection platform for research.

November

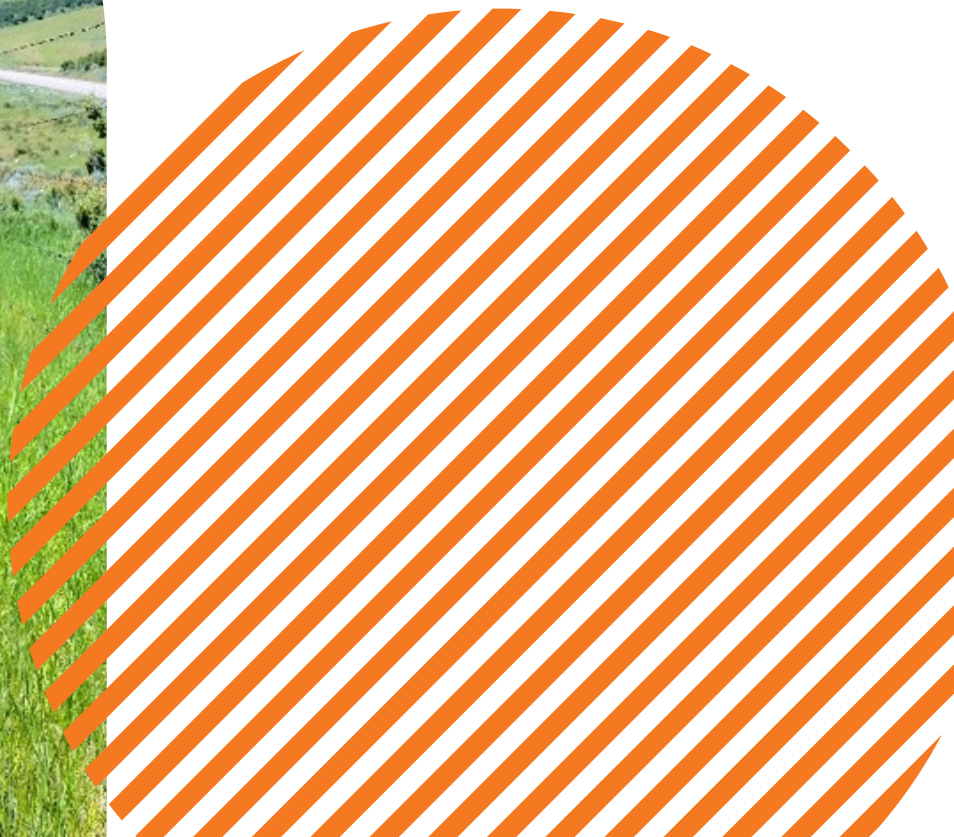

CORY SCOFFIELD

Cory Scoffield, who is pursuing his degree in surveying and geomatics engineering and surveying technology, has been honored as ISU's November Career Path Intern of the Month and enjoyed some adventures during his internship. He holds a Career Path Internship

He holds a Career Path Internship with the Idaho Transportation

Department, where he has performed a variety of surveying tasks in support of numerous projects.

December

AIDEN PARKER

Aiden Parker is a sophomore at Idaho State University and is currently pursuing a bachelor's degree in Political Science and Global Studies. Parker currently holds a Career Path Internship position with the ISU Political Science Department. His most recent work revolved around collecting information on Masters of Public Administration and Masters in Public Policy programs throughout the country, including the number of core courses, the national ranking of programs, the type of university, the content of core courses, and which universities were minority serving institutions.

