Summer 2022 Graduate Support Opportunities

ISU Summer Thesis and Dissertation Writing Workshop

This workshop is intended to assist ISU students who are currently at the thesis and dissertation writing stage of their program, facilitating appreciable progress on research manuscripts over the summer months. Students interested in preparing manuscripts for possible scholarly publication are also encouraged to apply. Groups will meet for three hours once every two weeks for six weeks, and full attendance is required in order to participate. Participation over Zoom is acceptable. Workshops will run from May 18th through July 27th and participants will be selected through a competitive application process. This workshop is running informally through the Graduate School, therefore, formal registration through Banner is not required nor will institutional credit be granted for taking part in this workshop. The workshop will be facilitated by an ISU faculty member, with students engaging in small peer-review workgroups. Student will be expected to submit material for each session for peer review, and to engage in meaningful peer review of others’ work.

Call for Applicants: Graduate students in any Idaho State University graduate program currently working on a thesis, dissertation, or scholarly publication are eligible to apply. Those interested should complete the application through the below link. Be prepared to write a statement of interest that details your current status within the program and your goals for participation in the workshop (outcomes such as completion of a thesis/dissertation chapter, preparation of academic work for publication etc., etc.). Please also include an abstract of the paper or papers you intend to work on. A faculty advisor or mentor should also complete an online recommendation on your behalf, which can be done through the same link. Applications and faculty recommendations are to be submitted by May 6th using the below link. Please note: You will need to be signed into your browser with your ISU credentials in order to access this application form.

Stipends: Graduate students selected to participate in the summer writing workshop will be granted a summer stipend of $1500. A portion of the stipend ($1000) will be disbursed prior to June 30th and a residual portion ($500) will be held in reserve to be paid upon successful completion of the workshop as determined by the faculty facilitator. Students receiving support should anticipate submitting a short statement at the conclusion of the summer semester detailing how the support provided impacted their graduate school experience.

Summer Research/Creative Activity Grants

The purpose of the Summer Research/Creative Activity Grants program is to provide ISU students with the support necessary for them to conduct research or engage in creative activity related to their programs during the summer months and complete a pre-defined program of work.

Call for Applicants: Graduate students in any Idaho State University graduate program currently conducting research as part of their program requirements are eligible to apply. Those interested should complete the application through the below link. Be prepared to provide a detailed “Program of Work” that describes your project’s research goals, your intended summer research activities, and how this support would advance your progress in your degree program. You will also need to submit a
