Summer 2023 Graduate Support Opportunity – Grants

Summer Research/Creative Activity Grants

The purpose of the Summer Research/Creative Activity Grants program is to provide ISU students with the support necessary for them to conduct research or engage in creative activity related to their programs during the summer months and complete a pre-defined program of work.

Call for Applicants:

Graduate students in any Idaho State University graduate program currently conducting research as part of their program requirements are eligible to apply. Those interested should complete the application through the below link. Be prepared to provide a detailed “Program of Work” that describes your project’s research goals, your intended summer research activities, and how this support would advance your progress in your degree program. You will also need to submit a detailed budget itemizing any projected expenditures. A statement of support from a faculty advisor is also required. Applications and faculty statement of support must be submitted by May 26 using the link below. Please note: You must be signed into your browser with your ISU credentials to access this application form.

Support Amounts/Stipends:

Research Grants up to $2000 will be considered. Stipend support, travel costs, and/or equipment may be included in the proposal. Students receiving support should anticipate submitting a short statement at the conclusion of the summer semester detailing how the support provided impacted their graduate school experience.
