A. Honors Course Requirements

The student will engage in independent research to supplement pre-existing curriculum within the course. There will be an additional essay incorporated into the final project, as well as an independent look at one of the oral projects.

B. Description of Honors Coursework

The student's work will be composed of two parts. The first will be an adaptation of the HIV PSA project, due February 21st. The student will complete the project by themselves, instead of with a partner, interviewing actual providers and encouraging more independent study of the topic. The criteria for the PSA will remain the same otherwise. Then, the student will continue to research HIV and its effects on Hispanic Americans, culminating in a project and report to be submitted by May 1st. The paper must be at least eight pages long and include at least 10 citations from peer reviewed sources.

C. Accountability

The student will check in with the professor every-other Friday in order to ensure progress on the assignments are being made. This will include reviewing a list of sources (due Oct 1) and an outline of the paper (Nov 1).

D. Final Grade Calculation

As the PSA is already incorporated within the coursework, the essay will be the only add-on to the final grade. The essay will be incorporated into the "Participation" portion of the final grade, adding 100 points to the category.
